

READY FOR CHANGE.

READY FOR A NEW 'NORMAL'.

READY FOR OUR NEW WORLD.

READY FOR CHANGE?

Today's young people are facing extraordinary challenge and change.

A recent survey by The Duke of Edinburgh's International Award Foundation of more than 3,500 14- 24 year olds from 42 countries* found that:

- Almost half currently report high levels of stress
- 54% are concerned for their mental health
- 62% are concerned for their physical health and fitness
- Almost three quarters (74%) are worried about the health and wellbeing of their family and friends

Extensive challenges have already emerged because of COVID-19 and the long-term implications are yet to be seen. However, one thing is certain: young people will be amongst those to experience the greatest impact.

It has never been more important to invest in our young people; to help ensure they are ready to face the challenging and changing times ahead.

READY FOR A NEW 'NORMAL'

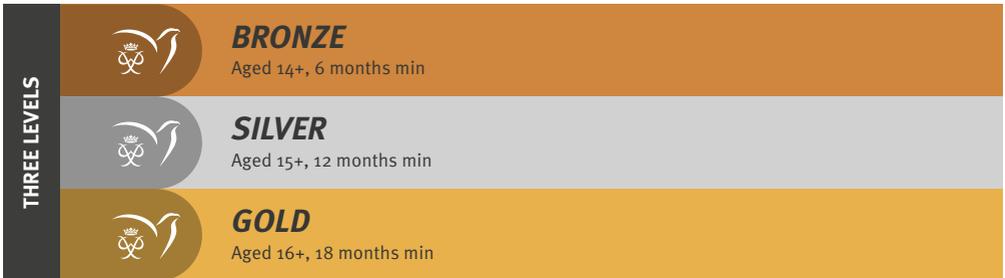

With more than 60 years' experience equipping young people to be ready for the world, The Duke of Edinburgh's International Award is here to help.

It gives 14- 24 year olds access to a global framework that empowers them to learn and grow through non-formal education, all while working towards globally recognised accreditation.

By supporting mental health and long-term prospects; by giving them the tools to develop their resilience, adaptability, leadership and problem solving, the Award can help to equip young people to be ready for the world. Ready for a new 'normal'.

- 🎓 Readjust to formal education

Ready for the future

The Award encourages young people to:

- 🏢 Employability
- 🎯 Goal setting and planning
- 👥 Increased community engagement
- 🌍 The ability to thrive in a changing world

Investing in our young people, our communities and our future

Schools worldwide have always strived to offer a broad and balanced curriculum. Increasingly, policy makers and education regulators are recognising the importance of learning outside the classroom, and the opportunities that can be created to develop the skills, behaviours and attitudes needed for adult life and work.

The challenge often lies in deciding how to structure such cocurricular activities and how to celebrate learners' achievements. The Duke of Edinburgh's International Award develops confident, responsible, reflective, innovative and engaged learners by creating opportunities for young people to make decisions, develop skills, get physically active, give service to their local community and experience adventure. It rewards and celebrates achievement through a simple, globally recognised, certification system.

Ready for now and the future

New challenges will present themselves in and outside the classroom as the world begins to recover from the effects of COVID-19. Young people will need support to navigate these challenges, adapt to a new 'normal' and maintain strong mental and physical health.

The Award enables young people to learn to lead and be a leading force in their communities, developing characteristics which will not only help them now, but also in the years to come. Help them to take positive action at a time when the world needs them more than ever.

“ Young people can be strong, they can be more than capable, if we all play our part in helping them to fulfil their potential. Help more young people access great non-formal education, achieve the Award and be the young leaders of the future.”

“...in the future, people will need far greater flexibility, resilience, capability, capacity to adjust, problem-solving and communication skills to deal with fast-changing times, constant innovation and ever more unpredictable circumstances. We have known this for some time, though perhaps many of us remain surprised, even shocked, at the pace it has come upon us.”

“ The future of education is in coming back to the basics. We shouldn’t push the learners to what we think is best for them but what it is that they can contribute, to the betterment of the future of themselves, the community and the globe generally.”

“To craft a better normal in the wake of COVID-19 ...will require very innovative new approaches to long-lasting systems. A combination of academic learning and community engagement will hopefully allow us, members of my generation, to craft a better normal.”
